California's Racing Stables.

New York, April 23d.—The sporting editor of the Mail and Express says to-day: Eastern turf-goers may rest satisfied that now the entire California contingent, ex-cept Beaconsfield and Duke of Norfolk and cept Beaconsfield and Duke of Norfolk and one or two horses of less consequence, is in the best racing shape and dangerous enough to place in jeopardy some of the richest prizes in the East. All the horses in Haggin's stable are in a forward condition, and I believe one of the three-year-olds in the stables will win the Derby, my choice of the lot of course being Ban Fox, then Ben Ali. Following him is Preciosa. The latter is within five pounds of her best form. All the racing stock stable of Porter. form. All the racing stock stable of Porter moments before noon the Ashe, including the fast Alta and the fa- and the House adjourned. nous Binnette, are ready for any company.

Lucky Baldwin expresses himself pleased with his entire lot. Tyrant and Hidalgo have not lost any of their speed, and are in the best of health. When the California racers come on, supplemented by cracks from the Western stables of Pete Corrigan, Cassidy and Morris, Eastern turfmen will have to fight hard to win 40 per cent. of the stakes at Saratoga, Sheepshead Bay, Jerome Park, Monmouth Park, Washington and Baltimore. In fact, I do not believe they will win 40 per cent. of the stakes.

Railroad Matters. New York, April 23d.—Railroad circles were considerably agitated to-day over a report from Chicago that freight rates were to be advanced 20 per cent. per 100 pounds, to take effect immediately. Your correspondent called at the Union Pacific offices and saw Representative Agent Knowland. "This is news to me," he said. "We received no instructions from the general offices to advance freight rates, though commencing next week. We take freight at our present rate, 30 cents per 100 pounds, only from day to day. The spectators were a good deal amused at the witness' reference to Powderly as the man who had undertaken to run not only the railroads but all the trades of the country, and the witness snapped out as a joke his admission that he had found it required all his ability to run the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

The 18 year-old daughter then locked the baby in an adjoining room and ran screaming outside to apprise her father of the awful work within. After a terrible struggle, the woman was secured. One of the children is dead, and the others are likely to die before morning. Mrs. Smith is herself in a very precarious condition.

Confirmation.

Washington, April 23d.—The Reverend Henry Ward Beecher has been making some pretty severe remarks about the Democratic party, much to the surprise of some gentlemen in that organization, who thought that Henry was really and truly converted at the last Presidential election.

When the State Mineralogist decided that the vast mineral deposits discovered about a year ago at Antelope, Sacramento county, contained nothing of value he was misled by appearances. Professors Price and Soderling, after a more extended investigation of the product of the mine, have discovered that it includes sulphide of iron in practically inexhaustive quantities. Tests recently made in England show the mineral to be all-important in the manufacture of fine steel blades, and a mineralogist who is willing to pay $60,000 for the property is now on his way to California to make arrangements for its purchase.

As this item was somewhat important, if true, I took the liberty to make inquiries of Professor Hanks himself regarding this mine, which happens to be located in this vested, and there need be but little trouble county and in which every resident is sup- in bringing about such a result, providing county and in which every resident is supposed to be more or less interested.

As sulphide of iron was mentioned, being a source of supply in the manufacture of fine steel blades (also Damascus blades), the writer's curiosity was very naturally excited, for iron only combines with sulphur in two forms, being He S2 and Fe S. The first being composed of one atom of iron to two of sulphur, which equals pyrites, marcasite, phyrrhotite or magnetic pyrites, generally called here "sulphurets," also occasionally "mundic." The second (Fe S) produced artificially by melting iron (Fe S) produced artificially by melting iron and sulphur together, principally for the production of sulphuretted hydrogen (H 28). most useful reagent in a chemical ore would have to be freed of the sulphur. The ore, however, is used for the producof iron (Fe2O3), and in this, if it contains gold, this precious metal is locked up, to be iberated by the "chlorine" or amalgamation process, and by smelting with or with-out lead. Only a few weeks ago the writer quantities as he pleases, and that will be made assays of ore from some locality above Delta which contained $197 84 in silver and gold, and a large portion was composed of this mineral, which in all cases carried some gold, but in most cases not sufficient to pay for the working of it. If this party on the way here with $60,000 desires to find a large supply of iron ore for cutlery, the undersigned can point to a locality where it must be in great abundance, and can be extracted as in New Jersey, by electro-magnets, from the sea sand in Humboldt Bay, this State. About 1881, the Scientific Press of San Francisco contained a long article of the riches of gold stored up in the black sand of Humboldt Bay. The writer would have it that the sand contained more than sufficient to pay off our national debt, and knowing that Uncle Sam was loaded down pretty well in that direction, I was anxious that famous sand. After some platina, or what is known as the platina groupe, there being about five rare metals combined with it, but the principal part was black magnetic sand, which could very easily be extracted with a large magnet and then brushed off ready for smelting. From 60 to 70 per cent. of this sand is magnetic, and could be utilized for the purpose already mentioned, viz: fine cut-

In conclusion, the undersigned does not wish it understood that any doubt is thrown upon these iron deposits, which may or may not exist in large quantities at the lo-cality mentioned. That sulphide of iron be used for fine steel work, and $60,000 be paid for a deposit of iron of that sort, is certainly open to doubt, and will be no ben-efit, but rather an injury, to this county to have it spread broadcast over this country. Very respectfully, JOHN EITEL.

THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC RAILROAD Losing Its War Paint.—The San Francisco Post of last evening says: "On account of trouble on the Santa Fe road the Atlantic and Pacific has declined to take any of its contract passengers back to the East, but the Central Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande, with that motherly kindness which distinguishes railroad companies have agreed to take the Atlantic and Pacific passengers back over their roads, and by presenting A. and P. tickets at the office of the Central, on Market street, they will be exchanged. The A. and P. seems to have abandoned the railroad war completely. and it is expected that rates will be restore in a few days. River points were jumped up to $16 this morning, and to morrow a $20 rate may be looked for."

The Methods of the California Fruit-Growers' Association and the Fruit Union Compared.

[From the Pacific Rural Press.]

Editors Press: In the issue of your valuable paper for April 10th you published Grand Army of the Republic Officers.

WALLA WALLA, April 23d.—The following officers of the Grand Army of this department were elected this morning: Commander, Charles M. Holton, Yakima; Senior Vice, A. P. Curry, Spokane Falls, Junior Vice, James T. Burnes, Dayton; Surgeon, N. G. Blalock, Walla Walla; Chaplain, M. M. Bane, Spokane; Council of Administration, Louis Myer, Vancouver; J. A. Shoudy, Eliensburg; L. H. Prather, Spokane; William Hipkins, Tacoma; A. D. Rogers, Olympia. Delegate to National Encampment, F. J. Parker; alternate, H. C. Thompson, of Pomeroy. authorized to speak for the Natoma Company with any more authority than your humble servant, yet I am not prepared to deny that Mr. Porter may do so, and for the reason that I have been informed that the crop is or was for sale, and if I was corupon the coast have recently published the following, or similar items concerning the in the judgment of the Drectors of the com-pany a satisfactory price was offered. The only other way in which I can see that the California Fruit Union can be se-that the California Fruit Union can be secured the handling of the Natoma company's crop is for it to guarantee that the fruit shall bring a certain price at least, with a chance for more. If terms of the above nature and character have been agreed upon, and Mr. Porter or some agent of his has bought or contracted to buy upon the arrival in carload lots of the crop in the East, together with the crops of other East, together with the crops of other growers, is it not natural to presume that all efforts necessary will be made to not only get the cost back, but also to realize a banksome result. the bulk of the shipments of California fruit East are consigned to one man, for then it will be very easy for him to select markets—certain cities and towns—and protect them by not permitting any more fruit to be placed there than will bring large profits. Of course that will necessitate the glutting of the markets, but what of that? I know it is claimed by the Trustees of the California Fruit Union who made the contract with Mr. Porter that he has no right to buy fruit. Now, in order to show that the Trustees do not understand the English language, or else it is difficult to know just what they mean by what they say, I will quote all there is said in the cona most useful reagent in a chemical laboratory.

It must therefore be the first which produced the fine "Damascus blades," and as this sort of "iron sulphide" is very abundant in this State, it is hoped that Turkey will become interested, for here is a supply for the manufacture of Damascus blades to enable Turkey to cut the whole of Russia's throats with little Greece thrown in as a throat will be the same may be detrimental to the interests of the California. throats with little Greece thrown in as a bargain. The fact is, pyrites have seldom been utilized for the sake of iron, as the balf shall be final unless reversed by the half shall be final unless reversed by the half shall be final unless reversed by the Board."

the right to buy until the General Manation of sulphuric acid, and very seldom for its sulphur; it then becomes the red oxide ger, Mr. Buck, interferes and orders him to stop. Now, if I understand the meaning of language, this gives to Mr. Porter not only the right to buy parts of crops, sufficient to cover the whole shipping season and there is not one word in the contract to prevent him doing so.
But for argument sake I will admit there is, and ask that, if there should any difference of opinion arise between the agent and th managers as to the propriety or right of the agent buying, who will be in a posi-tion to command, Mr. Buck or Mr. Porter. who under the terms of his contract with the Trustees has full, complete and absolute control over all the fruit consigned to him, including the fruit of the manager? Who is it that has the power to destroy or build up at will, the manager or the agent?

Is it natural to presume that his wishes will be antagonized by the manager or a majority of the Board, who admit they are controlled by selfish motives and interests, when they declare, as they have, that it is their wish and determination to force all who have bought and shipped fruit East in trouble I procured about five pounds for the past out of the business? Do they not by investigation, but did not find sufficient so declaring admit they are willing to degold in that lot (which, by the way, was troy the business and sacrifice the property taken at random), to pay for its extraction. I found, however, besides gold and silver, selves be benefited? Is it reasonable to suppose those who will suffer themselves to be controlled through selfish motives to such a degree will oppose the power they have created to crush others? Do not understand me to say that it is wrong for Mr. Porter to buy if he wishes to, or the Trustees, or anybody else to do the same, for I do not, providing equal facilities and conditions will be extended to all; but, on the contrary, I do object to Subsequently the Siemens Bros. & Co., of taking Mr. Porter out of the market as a Berlin, were consulted about the machines buyer. Neither do I wish to be understood as censuring the Natoma Company or anye answered it, stating that the machines body for wishing to sell their fruit, for I sold at £225, £5 for packing and £50 claim they should have the right to do so. for a dynamo-machine for continuous current. To this must be added the freight and duty on these machines.

As sooner or later our iron deposits must be utilized on this coast, it may not be it would result in proving a benefit to the few at the expense of the many.

There is not one word in the contract with Porter Bros. Co. that will compel it to appoint agents in cities and towns, or to do anything else that will incur expense. In fact, nothing is guaranteed by Mr. Porter. On the contrary, however, he has taken all nice gentlemen; honest, and no doubt mean well, and I have no doubt but that all the members of the Fruit Union are good, honest men also. But I am not willing to take your words for anything. It is not business to take any man's word, for the reason that there are so many ways to get out of it. I want you to bind yourselves in a contract with me that you will do as you say you will, then I will feel safe, but not otherwise. Of course, you all know me, and know that it is not necessary for me to go to the trouble of giving you any guarantee which would compel me to do right by you, and thereby protect your interests, for you know that I will do right; that I will do the best I can for you, so long as it will not interfere with my own interests. That is the reason why I stipulated in my contract with you that you should make good all deficiencies caused by carloads bringing less than freight, cartage and my commis-

False Bolstering of the Fruit Union. EDS. RECORD-UNION: My attention has been attracted to the dispatch published in your paper to-day concerning the meeting of the fruit-growers held at Coloma on the 21st instant. The statements therein made are intended to misrepresent and mislead, and ought not to go undenied. I was presand ought not to go undenied. I was present at the meeting referred to, and must say that when the author of your dispatch says: "It seems to be the unanimous opinion of the stockholders in the State Union, who compose three-fourths of the growers here, to allow that organization to have absolute control of their fruit destined for Eastern shipment, and to stand by the Union in its entirety" their fruit destined for Eastern shipment, and to stand by the Union in its entirety"—he either intentionally attempts to mislead your readers by publishing an absolute falsehood, or else he failed to understand the temper and disposition of the fruit-growers of Coloma. I can state positively that no vote was taken in indorsing the so-called Fruit Union. No remarks were made showing confidence in the Fruit Union, except by its special representatives, Messrs. Buck the Manager of the Union) and Allison, and two or three others. By actual count, 323 of the persons who were present are known to be opposed to the Fruit Union, and only five or six are in favor of it. Surely no good can come through misleading reports, and can come through misleading reports, and a cause that is weak enough to require such attempted help ought to go the wall.

These statements concerning the meeting can be fully substantiated by the leading citizens of Coloma who were present.

ITS ISLAND TOWNS.

The Village of Janicho-Its Cave Idols and Sculptured Stones-Approach of Holy Week.

Patzcuaro (Mexico), April 15, 1886.

[Special Correspondence of the RECORD-UNION.] Fronting this remarkable town, which has no counterpart in the world-unless it may be Catalonia-is the village of Janicho, built on a beautiful island in the midst of the lake. Many romantic stories are told of the latter place (pronounced Han-ee-co), which is peopled entirely by Indians, who mingle little with dwellers on the main land, and have preserved their orginality intact. Some tell us it is unsafe to go thereand that intruders upon the enchanted isle have disappeared-never to return; while others affirm that the islanders are so shy approach of a stranger, and therefore "outside barbarians" can seldom get a glimpse of them. Determined to find out for ourselves, we embarked yesterday upon a voyage of discovery, ala Colombo, as here they age of discovery, ata Colombo, as here and call the great explorer. Our vessel was a long canoe, formed of the hollow trunk of tletoe boughs, believing that they sheltered sylvan spirits which brought good luck to be a special description. lians with the ugliest faces I ever beheld. But here, as elsewhere, "beauty is only skin-deep," and the ancient saw anent the singed cat ("better than he looks to be") is often exemplified. Our gondoliers, despite their villainous countenances, proved to be the most peaceable and obliging of fellows, who rowed us around and around the shores of the lovely lake, darting into any little cove or inlet that struck our fancy, chanting wild songs the while for our edification in the original, harmonious Tarrascan, and even jeopardizing their precious necks in the effort to secure for us a nest of young egrets which Betsy's sharp eyes spied among the rushes. No words can do justice to the drooping branches, sweeping the water, afford excellent hiding places for all those water - fowl who seem to whiten their plumage by constant dipping in pools and marshes. One citizen was pointed out to us as the

LOVELINESS OF LAKE PATZCUARO. Clear and placid as one vast mirror, and covered with thousands of wild ducks, in lace-trimmed drawers, flowing cloak of white egrets, tall cranes, blue herons, while purple silk, long real tresses depending occasionally was seen a pink-breasted from his golden crown, with an uplifted spoon-bill, or a scarlet flamingo fishing in saber in one hand and a palm branch in the shallows. The lake is about thirty miles long, by ten or fifteen broad, and of hailed with immense enthusiasm. People great depth in some places. Upon one prostrated themselves before it, bowing shore lies the town of our temporary habitation, Patzcuaro; directly opposite—about fourteen miles as the crow flies—is kiss the hem of the purple robe, and castthe ancient village of Tzinzunzan, while ing their precious palms before it that they within sight, near the circling sweep of might receive a double blessing from conwaters, rise the gray walls of Tziracuaratiro | tact with the wooden hoofs. and other Indian villages. The innumera-ble green islands which dot the lake, like emeralds set in silver, are each covered with cane-stalk jacals and adobe cottages, shaded by lime trees, figs, pomegranates and olives; while in the midst of them a few scant fields of corn, tobacco and chili are cultivated, which three staples comprise all the "necessaries of life" for the simple inhabitants.

MILLIONAIRE OF THE VICINAGE, and is much respected by his neighbors, yet wears a coarse blanket like the rest. Money is of no value, except for the comfort and happiness it can purchase, and those things depend entirely upon one's ideas of the same. The richest man, with his millions saddled upon his back, can get little out of them beyond his "board and clothes" and a world of care and anxiety. These Janichoans, wise in their simple content, have all that heart can wish, generous nature supplying their every need upon this sunny island, no distracting ambitions to mar the quiet of their lives—the bitions to mar the quiet of their lives—the whole world for them lying within the ting is liable to decay in the soil.—[Scien-

The chief food of these happy islanders, besides the fruits, gourds and other things that grow spontaneously, eked out by tortillas made from crushed corn and seasoned by chili and wild garlie, is the incomparable whitefish, for which the lake is cele-brated. COLONY OF DISTURBED BATS Fluttered in our faces in their blind efforts to escape. I have often heard that "a bat's bedroom" is the most vile-smelling place in the world, but never before had opportunity to test the statement. In course of our rambles we found many large stopes to escape. I have often heard that "a bat's our rambles we found many large stones entirely covered with ancient carvings entirely covered with ancient carvings-curious hieroglyphics, twisted snakes, frogs, lizzards and grotesque faces. Who carved them, and what manner of people once occupied these lake islands, no living antiquarian is wise enough to tell us. Tarrascan occupancy may be traced back for 800 years or more, but it has been proven that these things were not the work of their hands, nor the cave idols the divinities which they worshiped.

We touched at various other villages in the lake—Xaracuaro, Ynguan, Pacanda and Tecuen—at one of which some rural were carrying about a flower-decked image of the Virgin, to the sound of wierd music on primitive instruments made of reeds, while a boy with a bell preceded the procession, and a number of little children ran in advance strewing the green pathway with marigolds. It was hard to leave the placid lake even when the shadows of evening stole gently over its silvery waters and brain. evening stole gently over its silvery waters, and brain.

Little by little the green islands became indistinct, and a gray vapor concealed the opposites shores, as our patient boatmen, still keeping time to the rhythmic motion of their circular paddles by songs in an unknown tongue, landed us at last upon the pebbly beach of Patzcuaro.

> HOLY WEEK OBSERVANCE. As Holy Week approaches, the great fiesta time in all the year-a marked change is taking place in everything social, domestic and religious. The tenets of their faith are so closely interwoven with all the affairs of life in Mexico, especially among the poorer classes, that the village church is the central feature of every rural com-munity, and its attendant priests the real rulers of the bodies and souls of their communicants. Among other preparations, to fitly observe the sacred season, great quantities of palms are being secured, some of the Indians traveling off for them on foot as far as the distant tierra caliente. They are generally cut in branches from five to ten feet high, carefully dried, and braided into numerous shapes and devices. On Palm Sunday the churches will be filled with them, and each person who enters will carry one, making the whole interiors look like vast moving forests-a modern Birnam wood, swaved as by a gentle wind. During the services of that day, commemorating Christ's triumphal entrance into Jerusalem, the Bishops and priests will bless and timid that they hide themselves at the the palms by comprehensive benedictes, that their believing possessors may preserve them through the year as sateguards against storms and sickness and all the ills to which flesh is heir. Afterwards the rich decorate their casas with them, and the poorest peasants their squalid huts—some-thing as the ancient Druids hung up mis-

the household. Last year we attended

California has had a long line of extremely modest Governors, and although many were men of great wealth, all refused and no mere change of name can make it to occupy the palatial building, preferring anything else. Indeed, old Californian books, a large amount of THE LATEST IMPROVED MACHINERY For that purpose has been purchased, placed in position, and to-day the building is occupied from cellar to garret, and altogether is one of the best book-printing and binding establishments, not only on the coast, but in America. On the first floor is located the engine, press and electrotyping rooms. On the second floor is the office of the Superintendent of State Printing, Col J. J. Ayers, and the composing rooms. The third floor is used as a bindery. M. F. Cummings, the Superintendent of this department, has just completed his work of having all the machinery placed in position and has began to turn out work that is equal to the best produced anywhere. Thi s the most complete book-binding estab ishment upon the coast. It would be beyond the scope of a newspaper item to give a detailed statement of the machinery of this department, and describe their auto matic workings. Such a description would no doubt be interesting, for each piece of mechanism in this vast department is a complete study of itself, and displays in a marked degree the wonderful ingenuity of EMPLOYES AND WHAT THEY COST. Frank Mahon, the book-keeper, and Matthew D. Carr, foreman of the State Printing Office, furnished the reporter work, independent of the school-books, $1,792 25; compositors, electrotypers, $1,792 25; compositors, electrotypers, binders and engravers on school-books, bindery and 24 of whom are young women. The latter receive from $9 to $12 per week, in accordance with their proficiency, and all are experienced workers THE SCHOOL-BOOKS.

The State Board of Education have arranged to print a series of readers, in three parts. The First will contain 128 pages, the Second 288, and the Third 512. The Speller also has been arranged, but all the copy has not yet been placed in the hands of the printer. The books are printed from electrotype plates. The first sheet of the Third Reader, sixteen pages, was sent to the binders' room on the 5th instant, and since they have always and since the pages was sent to the binders' room on the 5th instant, and since they have always always always and since they have always alw and since then has advanced to 300 pages, all of which are immediately folded, and are ready for binding as soon as the last sheets are received. In about two weeks they will have the last form, and 25,000 panels, a star at the top, another at the bottom, and an American shield in the center, a very handsome design. On the top panel, in gilt letters, "Third Reader," top panel, in gilt letters, "Third Reader," and on the lower, "California Series." The sides are of dark-brown, silk-finished cloth, handsomely embossed in ink, with the words in the center, "Third Reader." On the top, "California State Series," and at the bottom, "School Text Books." The paper is of the best quality, the binding the most durable, not easily soiled, and very handsome. Immediately upon the completion of the Third Reader, the First Reader will be taken in hand, and an edition of 60,000 printed and bound as quickly as possible. After that an edition of 60,000 of the Second Reader will follow, and then the Speller. The First and nate circumstance that there has arisen any question or dispute about the name of this portion of our State, and the sooner this question is fully and finally settled the establishments in this city outside of the establishments in this city outside of the and retards settlement. In the first place tending e st and west from the summit of the Sierras to the summit of the coast directly north of the Agricultural Exposi-tion building. It was originally constructed Bluff—the northern extreme of the Sacrato occupy the palatial building, preferring to reside in some of the more unpretentious, but elegant buildings of which Sacramento has more for its size than any other city in the State. For several years the building remained unoccupied, an aristocratic but uninhabited palace. The Adjutant-General finally used the basement for a State armory, and the State Printer was quartered therein. Since the Legislature decided that the State should print her own school books, a large amount of ern California, and, as before stated, and tween these natural divisions is Central California. No attempt should ever have been made to change the name of any portion of this natural central division. The nistake seems to have grown out of a desire on the part of those organizing the Immigration Association, having its headquarters at Sacramento, to draw a distinction between the two ends of the great central valley or basin. It is true that the two ends of this valley have been given different names from the names of the great rivers draining them. But the waters of these rivers unite and reach the bay and ean as one river, and the valley remains naturally but one great central valley or basin. Had the Immigration Association, basin. Had the Immigration Association, which was originally designated Central and Northern California Immigration Association, dropped the latter designation instead of the former, retaining the name Central California Immigration Association, it would have avoided giving our Eastern people the chills, and might have attracted greater attention and a larger imstracted greater attention and a larger imattracted greater attention and a larger immigration. The name was, to say the least, unnatural and unfortunate, and it will be a fortunate thing for all interested when the term northern is dropped, and the old and natural name, Central California, is by universal consent and use restored. Why should Sacramento want to Sacramento is nearer the geographical and ommercial center of this great basin than mer; case inking machine; two embossing any other city, and why should she not machines; sawing machine; six standing court friendly and business relations with both ends of it? Why countenance a distinction in name when there is no reason for it, but many against it? Let us fall back on the natural and right name.

EDS. RECORD-UNION: It seems to be a hard thing to do-to find a proper name for middle and northern California, so as to give, by the name, our Eastern cousins ports many families and materially adds a correct idea of our climate, etc. It is but prise all the "necessaries of life" for the simple inhabitants.

Several substitutes have been suggested for north-ary California, among which are "Alta substitutes have been suggested for northern California, among which are "Alta California," "upper California," and "central California." The Sacramento Bee is making a fight for "nigher California," but we doubt if it would accomplish the desired object. It would be applied in strangers' minds to altitude rather than latitude, and this would be as objectionable as "northern California," since high altitude and low temperature are always associated together. perature are always associated together. Of all the changes suggested we prefer "Central California," as it is a correct designation of our geographical position, but we have little faith in any good to result from such a change. pride as she ran lightly down and signaled a passing car, he noted that the number of the dummy was 11. It occurred to him that he had observed the same number on the car that brought her back the previous day. The next afternoon he loitered about until she started out for her regular ride, and noticed the same coincidence. The next day and the next he continued to exercise his vigilance. It was always Num-

This Number 11 became a hideous bugbear to his mind. In vain he tried to reason that the constant recurrence was purely mulated upon his heart. The cable roads, to be sure, were the common vehicle of out-of-door recreation adopted by half the populace. But why had his daughter mand. never discovered their attractions before? What did it mean, this odd predilection for rides on the dummy, when her saddle what did it mean, this odd predilection for rides on the dummy, when her saddle horse stood idle in the stable, and the dust gathered thick on her little phaeton? And why did she return from these excursions with such red cheeks and shining eyes. He was losing sight of his daughter. They had reached the end of the road and were on the homeward journey. Jack Starr had not put in his appearance, nor did Miss Hetty appear to be on the lookout for any one, sitting there quietly in her seat, drinking in the fresh air with a look of perfect content on her innocent face.

The trip down-town was made without any great misadventure, except that the vigilant gripman rescued an old man from being mangled under the wheels, as the car suggested.

"Worse than ever. If she saw some one following her about she might suspect I had put a paid detective on her track." He groaned at the humiliating thought.

Austin gave a gesture of pleased acquiescence.

"Very good," continued Pinchley. "Suppose we give the conductor of Number 11 a furlough to-morrow."

Could it be that the lovers, cut off from any other means of communication, exchanged messages through the medium of this dummy engineer?

impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweetzer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other anodyne expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says :-"I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been abandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease susceptible of cure, who has not been made well by it

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough. These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON AREI-

The President's message to Congress on case. Any other must result in the verthe labor troubles and strikes is neither diet that he is a fool. broadly statesmanlike nor greatly helpfu He suggests only that which Congress has already undertaken to do-to provide a National Board before which employers and employes may, if they agree so to do, arbitrate the issues between them. The suggestion that this Board be given broader regalia of official character by being related to the Bureau of Labor, is the only original idea in the paper, and relates to a matter of detail. This State paper, however, confesses that there can be no such thing as enforced arbitration, an absurdity upon which some have wrung weak changes. So far as it gives executive sanction the effort of Congress to "induce" arbitration and thus mold public sympathy and opinion, the document has force. But it is to be noted that this effort was in full vitality before the President opened his mouth on the question. He appears to have been brought up as a sort of reserve guard. The disposition to resort to legislation as the cure-all of social ills is strong enough at best among our people; it begets a trust that is most generally disappointed, and brings the law-making power very often into contempt. With "whereases" and "resolves" and "Acts" the American public is forever dosing itself, and the result is very much like that upon the physical system. There can be no objection to Congress advising employers and employes to arbitrate their difficulties; to giving that advice emphasis by providing ready means for such adjudication by consent. Ros ...

public shands not be led into reposing implicit trust in the method. All that can be entertained of it is hope. To rely upon it will but make disappointment the more keen, for it is not likely that the proposed scheme will be much availed of. The difficulty of filling a Board such as is contemplated with men in whom employing carriers and their employes throughout the whole country will have perfect confidence, is almost immeasurable. To fitly fill such offices there must be engaged the loftiest character and the broadest ability; men, against whose standing no shadow of reproach exists, and whose ability is coequal with that of the profoundest jurists; whose philanthropy is unbounded; whose courage is immeasurable; whose knowledge of the forces, conditions and needs of labor and capital are unequaled; who are proof against political ambition, and free from all prejudice and bias regarding the differing theories of the relations of capital and labor-in other words, men of such perfect intellectual and moral poise that their attitude shall be judicial in the broadest, highest and best acceptation of that term. Men can be found with these rare combinations, but they are few, and we find nothing in the bill in question inviting such to the tasks the Act prescribes. We have not, therefore, much faith in the ultimate success of a national Board of Arbitration, which of necessity cannot enforce its decrees. For, after they have adjudged that the employer shall do this, that or the other thing, it will remain his privilege to retire from business, since no law can compel him to conduct it; and after they have adjudged that the worker shall do this, that, or the other thing, it at all.

The truth is that the public has kindly concern in public men. They are results of our social system, developments of our political methods, fruit of republican institutions. Their identification with public measures and policies makes them part and parcel and of the people's history, and the history of nation, a distinction admirably made by the lamented Green, the incomparable historical analyst of peoples. Now, when Dr. Peters declares that the men of America wish to hear of the health of ex-President Arthur, one of the men of the people, one who has represented them in the most exalted trust they can confer upon any of their number, simply to satisfy an unworthy curiosity and to feed a vulgar taste for the sensational, he libels

The New York Herald falls into the rror of construing this protest to be a new and practical application of the theory of State rights. It is nothing of the kind, but is a practical application of the theory of the rights of united states in a republic, which, by convention not dissoluble, agree to accumulate a common fund for specific purposes, and the diversion of which to any other purposes than those expressed is a violation of the compact. State rights, on the other hand, are those things which the State may do outside of a people is greater than the history of a the agreed charter of concessions. In one sense it is a State "right" to protest against the misuse of the common fund, but in the general and popular acceptation of the term it is not State rights. The incident serves to point a moral, and should operate to check a tendency in Congress to use the money of the people of all sections for the personal relief of individual suffering due to no act or neglect of the Federal Government. Admit any other rule and a dominant religious power could use the whole treasure of the United States to relieve the treasuries of its charitable associations; or a majority so inclined could ness and hardness of heart. # THE WOMAN'S FRIEND!

A few Testimonials from well-known Citizens, who are using our NON-EXPLOSIVE "JEWEL" VAPOR STOVES:

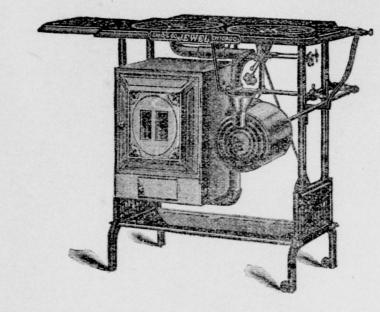

MESSRS. L. L. LEWIS & CO.—GENTLEMEN: The "JEWEL" VAPOR STOVE I bought of you April 5th is well named, for it is a Jewel, indeed. I have used it now almost three weeks, and in that time the expense of running it has not been one-half what it has cost me hereto-fore for wood or coal, not speaking of the amount of labor it has saved my family, such as lugging up wood for each day's cooking, chopping kindling, blacking stove, taking up ashes, and a hundred things pertaining to a Cook Stove that the "JEWEL" does away with. I would advise everyone to buy one of these Stoves, as I honestly believe they will save half the expense in fuel, if properly used. Respectfully, GEO. SMITH, corner Tenth and G streets.

MESSRS. L. L. LEWIS & CO.—GENTS: My "JEWEL" VAPOR STOVE works like a charm. I would not take $100 for mine, if I could not get another. The expense of running them is so small compared to the cost of other fuel, that I predict an immense sale for them. No-house should be without one.

DR. W. W. LIGHT, I street, bet. Eleventh and Twelfth.

L. L. LEWIS & CO., 502 J street—SIRS: I cannot say too much in favor of your "JEWEL!" VAPOR STOVE. It is the best and cheapest arrangement for cooking I ever saw, and I think if people only knew what a treasure they are in a house none would be without one. You can refer to me at any time concerning these Stoves, as it makes cooking a pleasure.

N. J. TOLL, Nineteenth and U streets.

MR. L. L. LEWIS—MY DEAR SIR: My wife is just delighted with our "JEWEL" VAPOR STOVE we bought of you, and it is a wonder that more of them are not in use. Yesterday morning we turned on the burners and started breakfast, and in just fifteen minutes everything was cooked and on the table, and I don't think we burned two cents worth of gasoline in cooking the meal. We would not be without it.

W. J. WALLACE, 619 P street.

L. L. LEWIS & CO.—SIRS: The three VAPOR STOVES we bought of you on April 1st, for Mr. J. Platt, Sixteenth and M, E. E. Myers, Seventh street, P and Q, and myself, are doing finely and we are all delighted with them. They bake to perfection, and as to cooking they are the boss. We can cook a meal on our "JEWEL" VAPOR STOVE in about one-half the time it took us to do it on our cook stove. We know of three'or four families who are going to get them, after seeing how nicely ours worked. Respectfully, C. B. STRONG, Twenty-fourth and I streets.

The above are a few Testimonials we present to the public, that they may see what those that have our "JEWEL" NON-EXPLOSIVE VAPOR STOVES in use have to say about them. We are the Sole Agents for these NON-EXPLOSIVE STOVES in California, and buy no other until you call and see them at our store. They are absolutely safe; they burn 25 per cent. less than any other Vapor Stove, and they are the only Vapor Stoves that has an oven permanently attached, leaving the upper holes always ready for cooking.

The ladies of the M. E. Some action should be taken looking to secure a better attendance of the men at weekly drills. There may be too much work and no play. The hours may be too long at drill, or the men may feel that they are not benefited according to the work done by them. This apathy is not confined to the troops here at all. It is general at odd periods. It might help matters if the commander would issue orders to his non-commissioned officers to report to ust saving his distance and Fairmont far In rounding the upper turn, Ackerman broke, flew across the track and checked the speed of Nevada and Mink, who were behind, and giving Prince, who was in the lead, an advantage of Burke, W. brated Inyo marble, which is found in numerous localities in the Inyo range, from the White mountain scuth 100 miles or more. While we make special mention of Inyo marble, we must not for that reason omit to state that other beautiful marbles and building stones are found in these mountains. The most beautiful porphyries, equal to those of Egypt, are of frequent occurrence, while granite, syenite, pegmatite and various other crystalline and metamorphic rocks, are met with in the subamorphic rocks, are met with in the sub-A method of inserting spots or ornamental lime canyons, or lie tilted against the flanks

It is numbered on the catalogue of the State Museum 5,344. It is nearly identical with rosso antico. Very little is yet known of its occurrence, but it is likely to be valuable and important. Verde antico, or as it is now called in English verde antique, is not a true marble, but is serpentine, combined with carbonate of lime or magnesia. It was much prized by the ancients, and is still extensively used. The color is due to oxide of chrome. As chromic fron and serpentine are both common and abundant in California, there is reason to hope that this beautiful ornamental stone will yet be found in the State. There are many fine specimens of verde antico from Italy in the State Museum. Giallo antico was considered one of the most valuable and beautiful of the ancient marbles. The grain was very fine and the coloring beautiful and rich. It resembled the Sienna and Verona marbles, but exceeded them in beauty and texture. It was first found in Numidia, in Northern Africa, and for that reason some times called "Numidian marble." It receives a high polish. The base, or keynote color, was yellow of many shades, from the deepest to nearly white or pale straw color. Some varieties were brecciated and others veined or motiled. There are a number of examples of this marble still to be seen in Rome. There are columns at the Pantheon and the arch of Constantine, and two columns at the Vatican. An ancient quarry has lately been discovered in Algiers, which is supposed to be that worked by the Romans and afterwards abandoned and lost. ON SAN JOAQUIN.

On San Joaquin, on San Joaquin. How rolls the tide of living green, How sweeps the wind through billowy grain How falls the long-lent loving rain. O San Joaquin, so wide and free, How swells thy distance like the sea! Soft winds that love thee, speed away, No barrier waits thy perfumed sway.

O, gentle skies, so blue above, The valley of my leal and love, How fair art thou, though burnished clear Or hung with rain clouds drooping near!

On thy horizon far and fine. The mountains stand in dim outline, Whence rivers slow descend, to keep Their strong long currents to the deep. O, toss thy billows, San Joaquin, Thy litted waves of sunlit green. O, flowering stretches, glow and shine, The homage of my heart is thine.

I know how sweet the mornings rise, Borne westward from the radient skies, With misty vail, all fresh and fair, Entangling bird songs in the air.

I know how calmly night looks down Clear-visioned in her starry crown, Whose moonlight all the distance fills, And trails the far-off western hills. On San Joaquin the rustling grain, Bears on the joy of toil's refrain: The vines sway low, and clover meads Unroll the wealth that toiling speeds.

On San Joaquin! On San Joaquin!
The world thy beautious tides has seen
The circling years shall bring to thee,
Great glory for thy destiny.

THE FIJI ISLANDS.

Americans Supplanted by the English-The Sugar Trade. E. Belford, United States Consul to Fiji, gives some instructive facts about that riji, gives some instructive facts about that country. He was appointed in 1883, and took up his residence in the town of Levuka that fall. Most of the American population are there, although the capital is Suva, on Vanalenvo Island. On a visit home he was 28 days by sail to San Francisco, 5,000 miles distant There are only 600 Americans on the group of 312 islands although but about 40 of the islands are what may be termed inhabited; and, stranger still, there is not an American shopkeeper or tradesman of any kind to be found. The few that are there have purchased tracts of land and devote are sober, thrifty, intelligent and well behaved.

The United States Government has no claim upon the islands. As early as 1846 before any other country ever thought of sending out an exploring party, John Wil-son, of Salem, Mass., founded a colony on the island of Nauklan, where the town of Levuka now stands, and unfurled the American flag over it. In 1847 he pur chased the island from the natives, and was afterward appointed Consul there, and turned it over to the United States. Then what was known as the Polynesian Land Company of Melbourne, composed of Gov-ernment representatives from Germany, England and the United States, joined forces and consolidated their respective in-terests in the island. In the year 1875 King Cakombau, then the Chief of the islanders, sent a commission to the United States, asking that our Government should annex their islands to our territory, but is was refused. It was soon after this time that England offered them protection and annexed them, paying the United States Government the paltry indemnity for their rights there of £10,000. In fact it paid but £5,000 of it, and the account stands tha

As good tea, coffee and tobacco are now being raised there as in any country on the globe, but only in limited quantities, to suit the home consumption and what is exported to Australia, and all done with coolie labor. The big industry is sugar; it is very large. There is a factory on the Revio river, a stream that is navigable about forty-five miles from its mouth which turns out 100 tons of sugar every twenty-four hours. It is owned, as is everything else that can be, by Englishmen, and has every improvement and conveni-ence possible—the building is even lighted by electricity. This firm employs coolie labor only, and owns most of the land from which it obtains its cane, buying some little from the English Government, which plants a few hundred acres each season to enable the natives to work out

The direct road to wealth then lay through a mulberry plantation and cocooneries and "filatures," or, as they were called then, reeling rooms, were adjuncts of many farms. Hundreds of thousands of the plants of a white mulberry called morus multicaulis were planted, and a good deal of silk was produced with very little profit. ## FORGOT THE OLD LADY.

The Farmer's Shopping Tour that Resulted Unpleasantly.

The Lewiston (Me.) Journal tells the following: Uncle B., from one of the towns just out of Lewiston, is a very prosperous farmer. He has a snug bank account, a pleasant home, and a nice wife. He is well along to the shady side of 60, but his face is round and so kindly that it belies his years, while his wife's cheeks are as rosy as Winter Baldwins. They are a finely-preserved couple, and Lewiston traders like to meet them across the coun-

Uncle B. usually drives in at this season of the year alone. Sometimes in summer his amiable lady comes with him, but usually at this season she is putting down the pork and piling up the cheeses. Tues-day of this week, however, it was decided that she should make the trip. They arrived at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at one of the Lisbon-street dry goods stores, and, leaving her, he drove off on to a little busi-ness. He went to the bank and talked with the cashier. He drove up to the blacksmith's shop to get the shoes sharpthe grain store. It puzzled him whether he'd better market hav now or wait till prise

AILY RECORD-UNION He had a vague impression of having forgotten something. He thought he would ask his wife.

Where's your mother?" he said, look ng around as he held his left stockinged foot in his right hand.
"Where's who?" replied his oldest daughter, as she stood, astonished, with a ea plate in her hand.

Why, where's your mother?" "Out in the barn, ain't she? Didn't she ome with you? You ought to know where

"If any one," said Uncle B.in telling this story on Wednesday in Lewiston, "had a flung me heels over head into our muck bed, I couldn't 'a felt so mean, but I braced up and I says 'I reckon I know where your mother is. She said she would wait for me at Oswald & Armstrong's, on Lisbon street, and I think I'd better not stop for any supper before I just drive down and get her.' Well, I drove down to Lewiston and found her. She was a sittin' there, kind of mad, long about 6:30 o'clock. She didn't say nothin' worth mentionin' to you. We both eat pretfy hearty when we reached home. The next mentionin' to you. We both eat pretfy hearty when we reached home. The next time I take her with me I guess I'll tie a string around my finger.'

THE FAIRIES' FROLIC.

"We've nothing more to paint, mamma; We've nothing more to paint!" One bright September morning. The fairies made complaint

"The woods are green, the rocks are gray, The sky is fresh and blue We've nothing more to paint, mamma, We've nothing more to do!" The eyes of mother Nature

Were sad and full of dreams;
Mixed with her dusky tresses,
The silver lay in gleams.
Within a sunny hollow,
On soft and fragrant grass,
She sat, with idle fingers,
And watched the hours pass.

But when the little fairies Came flocking to her feet,
She smiled in tender pity,
And said, in accents sweet:

'Why should I check you longer?
Soon come the frost and rime: A few short hours are left us, This is the fairies' time.

"A few short hours of sunshine Before the ice king's breath Will chill our leafy woodlands To stern and silent death. All spring you've done my bidding, And, through the summer hours, With rose and azure colors Decked out by bridal flowers.

I need you now no longer. "I need you now no longer.
Your mother's work is done,
The summer's toil is over,
Go, frolic in the sun!
Dance, play, and take your pastime,
On meadow, grove and hill:
This is the fairies' hour,
Go, revel as you will!"

Then, oh! the silver laughter, And, oh! the twinkling feet: They kissed their mother's tresses, They kissed her eyelids sweet. Then tripped a fairy measure,
The merry little crew,
And, spreading wings of azure,
Swift fled as morning dew.

The world is all too solemn, The world is all too green: Let's paint it with such colors As never yet were seen,
Now that mamma is napping!"
The little fairies said.
"Let's paint the elm trees yellow,
And paint the maples red.

And paint the oak dark crimson, Dye golden brown the brake, 'he moose a dusky purple, The woodbine scarlet make! 'he world is all too green; 'the world is all too green; ct's paint it in suppresses. Let's paint it in such colors As never yet were seen !

And when, in crisp October, Their mother in amaze, Aroused and gazed about her, Aroused and gazed about her,
The world was all ablaze—
Gold, scarlet, russet, purple,
Beneath the arching blue.
This was the fairies' pastime,
The roguish little crew!

The Curlin Automatic Frogless Switch. The Cincinnati Enquirer of March 26th ays: Yesterday a number of railroad officials assembled at Ludlow to witness a test on the Southern road of the Curlin automatic frogless switch. The Southern peohad a train made up of an engine. baggage car and two passenger coaches. The switch was first set for the side track, the train run up the main track, and the wheels set the switch and crossing for the No little interest in silk culture has been recently awakened by the influence of the Woman's Silk Culture Association, having its headquarters in Philadelphia, and through encouragement offered by the Generous Covernment, and by some individual for the main track. The switch and crossing for the main track without damage to the train or track. The switch was again set for the siding, and the train run in the side track. At that moment a long freight train came up the main track. The switch was thrown or the siding. The front wheels of the through encouragement offered by the General Government, and by some individual for the siding. The front wheels of the engine on the freight set the switch for the siding. The front wheels of the engine on the freight set the switch for the engine on the freight set the switch for the along the main track as smoothly as if it had never struck a misplaced switch. The engine and cars were run through the switch several times, it being set wrong, and it always performed its work. The device differs in almost every particular from the frogs and switches now in use, and is absolutely auxilliary to the main track, but does not change the construction, strength or form of the main track. All the parts of the switch and crossing that are movable are raise silk then, and should be likely to be profitable to produce it now, has not been so arranged as to form a continuous rail for profitable to produce it now, has not been explained. It is certainly true that millions of dollars are every year sent out of the country for silk, when there is no natural reason why it should not be raised by our own people. The effort to make silk production a feminine industry indicates duction a feminine industry indicates duction a feminine industry indicates away from the main rails, and leaves the same track clear and unbroken. In case main track clear and unbroken. In case the switch is left thrown for the siding through carelessness, a device is provided

FAIR DEALING APPRECIATED.—The Oakland Tribune, speaking of the labor troubles at the East and the freedom of this coast from them, says: "It speaks well for the Central and Southern Pacific Railroad Companies and their branch lines, that while strikes have been the order of the day all over the country for years past, not a strike over the country for years past, not a strike has ever occurred on this coast. It shows that the California companies are not grind-ing down their employes, but are liberal in their payments to the workmen in their employ. They are not the soulless, con-scienceless men that their detractors would have the world believe. They have always paid good wages, and have been generous to their employes. Circumstances have caused them to reduce their force, but little reduction has been made in wages." THE SUTEO TUNNEL .- This famous concern is now in the hands of a receiver, the mortgage upon it—held by McCalmont Brothers & Co., London, amounting, together with interest, to $1,50,000—having been foreclosed. The receipts of the tunnel from royalty on ore extracted from the Comstock amounts to over $300,000 per year, which certainly is pretty good interest on the indebtedness. It is to be hoped that whoever may finally own and control the tunnel, will have money, brains and amened on the old mare. He sold some butter, bought a coal-hod at the hardware store, and put in a bag of cottonseed at store, and a bag of cottonseed at st the'd better market hay now or wait till spring, and he was thinking of it when he turned his mare's head over Main-street bridge and chirrupped a "gid-dap" to her along the homeward road.

He unhitched, having driven right into the barn, and having fed and bedded his horse, went into the house. He came to anchor in the arm-chair in front of the kitchen fire, where the girls were getting supper. He yanked off his beots and pulled up the toe of his blue woolen stocking.

A Big Tree.—W. L. Pratt, whose ranch is one mile north of Visalia, has just finished cutting into firewood one of the largest oaks which has ever been laid prostrate by the woodman's ax. This mammont tree made 44½ cords of wood and 153 a month, and the wood and posts are worth $125 on the ground, making a net profit to Mr. Pratt of $62 50.

A Great Conflagration That sweeps away a whole city, starts from a flame so small that a glass of water would ex-tinguish it. In like manner, the most painful and fatal maladies of the throat and lungs ordi-narily develop from small beginnings, not difficult of cure if promptly treated with the proper remedy. But their progress is insidious and delay may be fatal. Colds and coughs lead to Laryngitis, Asthma, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Consumption. The only medicine certain to cure every bronchial and pul-monary affection not absolutely incurable is

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During 40 years it has steadily grown in popular estimation, and is now a household reliance in many thousands of families. Parents, whose lives were preserved by Aver's Cherry PECTORAL when they were young, are now sav-ing the lives of their children with it. Leading physicians extol its virtues and prescribe it in their practice. Intelligent druggists everywhere report noteworthy cures effected by it, within their personal knowledge.

STREET: OFFICE HOURS-9 TO 10;

From C. S. Houghton, bookseller, Sacramento, we have Nos. 10 and 11 of Capell's National Library Weekly series. These volumes sell at 10 cents each, and are esteemed the cheapest-priced library issues every known. There is no reason why every man, woman and child of reading taste should not have a very good library by taking these little volumes at 10 cents a week. Nos. 10 and 11 are "The Travels of Sir John Braundeville, Kt.," and two of Oliver Goldsmith's dramas—"She Stoops to Conquer" and "The Good-Natured Man." Let us suggest that those who wish to give these choice and other cheap small volumes a stronger binding, that they can easily do so. Cut some stiff card-board a little narrower than the width of the book. Place these covers so as to give a little overhanging margin all around, except on the back. First, however, glue a bit of muslin with Le Page's ready-made glue, or other strong paste, to the back end of the book. When this sets, fit the sides, but see that the back edge of each side falls short by one-eighth of an inch of the width of the book, so that when the muslin is folded down a hinge is made. Then anoint the edges of the muslin with glue, fold down on the covers, and, when set, your little book is neatly bound. To prevent soiling the covers, do not fold down the muslin until the glue is nearly dry, so that it will not press out when the muslin is pressed

The "Magazine of Art" (Cassell & Co. New York.) is at hand for May. The number is rich and varied in illustration. It is made particularly timely by an account o the Mary Jane Morgan collections of pict ures, illustrated by engravings. The frontispiece is an admirable engraving by Vengling, of Millel, "Gathering Beans," which brought one of the highest prices of the sale. A wonderful Constable is also reproduced, a picture which brought some 7,000. Delacroixes "Tiger and Serpent is given, and so are Albert Ryder's "The Resurrection," Dognan—Bouveret's exqui-"The Orphan in Church," and Corot's

"The Word Gatherer's." The opening article of the number is on "Benjamin Disraeli Earl of Beaconsfield," by George Saintsbury, and illustrated with reproductions of Millias' portrait. Following this article is one on "Ceilings and Walls." by J. H. Pollen. Leader Scott has the paper on "The Romance of Art," and Lewis F. Day discusses "Art in Metal Work." Russian art is treated of by Valdimir Stassoff. "Whitaker's Almanack" for 1886 we have from Jos. Whitaker, F. S. A., 12 Warwick Lane, London. It really is a cyclopedia rather than an almanac, since contains all the information usually d in a gazetteer, and besides the lists of the historic peerage, civil service, naval and army lists, valuable tables, epitome of Parliamentary proceedings, sketches of the Home, Colonial, and other English Governments, dramatic summary for 1885, astronomical discoveries, and the weather record for 1885. Postal, bank and railway guide lists of British possessions, and their civil and military establishments. Remarkable occurrences of the world in 1885, the University lists, the Orders of Knighthood, criminal and judicial statistics, Gov-ernment sketches of foreign countries, sporting notes, dates and records, and a great deal of other valuable information. The volume contains over 600 pages, and is a perfect mine of information-govern-

Poetic Measures;" that on "Conversation, Discourse, Elocution and Versitication." and that on "Homer's Representative Methods" have especially excited our admiration for the skill of the author in making clear his meanings, and for the profundity of his reasoning through simple processes. This volume, which should be read by all who essay elocutionary effects, would read poetry understandingly, and who are interested in the analysis of dramatic expression and other qualities in poetry. New York and London, G. P. Putnam's Sons; San Francisco, A. L. Bancreft & Co.

From John B. Allen, New York, we have his issue of "Bambaud's History of Russia," from the earliest times to 1877. It is in two handsome octavo volumes, translated by Lenera B. Lang, and fully illustrated, and sells at $1 75. Rambaud's is the best concise history of Russia extant. He is recognized in Europe as one of the recognized in Europe as one of the most pains-taking, conscientious historical stulents of the day, and as a writer of vigor, clearness and impartiality. Some very help-ful tables of measures and weights, and an explanation of the methods used in spelling Russian names, together with biographical notes, supplement the second volume and greatly assist the reader. Alden is creating a stir in the publishing world, by putting out standard books at a rate cheaper than any heretofore known. any heretofore known.

Andrew Lang's "Letters to Dead Authors" is really criticisms of Thackeray, Dickens, Austen, Poe, Burns, Byron, Shelley and sixteen others. Yet they are such criticisms as are rather expressions of admiration and poetic apostrophes, with just enough of independence of judgment and caustic art to give zest to most delightful text, albeit there are some pages we think Lang did not give the dutiful attention the major part received. How comes it that so accomplished a scholar as Andrew Lang speaks of Sir John Maundeville as Sir John Manndeville? This charming Sir John Manndeville? This charming

EASTER MORN.

"The Saviour is risen indeed!" Sing, children of light, sing that wonderful And perish, ye oracles vain;

No prophet like Jesus o'er death had the power To rise in life's beauty again. Burst, burst into bloom, then, ye gardens of roses;
Sing, voices of spring, in the light;
Full of joy is the hope that in Jesus reposes,
And with immortality bright.

E. Quickman, Mrs. E. S. Saunders, William Jennings, Port Townsend.

The members of the Central M. E. Church gathered in force last night at the residence of W. F. Cronemiller for a surprise and presentation to Mr. snd Mrs. Cronemiller, soon to leave the city, to make their home at Penryn, whither Mr. Cronemiller goes to take the position of Manager of the Penryn Fruit Company. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cronemiller have long been actively connected with the Central Church. and the membership took this occasion of testifying the high regard in which they held them. Mr. Cronemiller has been for years Superintendent of the Sabbath-school of the church and connected with the church choir, and Mrs. Cronemiller has been prominent in the social work of the church; both have been zealous workers. In token of esteem a testimonial was prepared by the members of the church in the form of a handsome and elaborate silver berry service, and the presentation was made last evening. The pastor, Mr. Filben, made the presentation speech, alluding touchingly to the affections of the church for those so soon to go from among them; of their appreciation of their faithfulness; asking that the gift be taken as a feeble memento of the regard in which they were held. Mr. Cronemiller feelingly responded, after which refreshments were served, music indulged in, and the evening passed delightfully. Upwards of seventy-five were present, and the affair was a pleasant success. At a late hour the company departed, wishing their hosts Godspeed, and success in their new home.

WHEAT—To-day is a holiday in England and at Eastern centers, so that we have no quotations from those directions. Business here is quiet, though prices remain steady at the established rate of $1 35 ½ ctl for quality that comes up to shipping standard. A better article sells promptly at the usual advance of 1½c % ctl.

BARLEY—It will probably be six weeks before new crop comes to market. At the moment, supplies of Feed are far from heavy, and prices are well sustained, the basis of transactions being $1 37½ $\pi$ ctl for good quality. In Brewing descriptions the movement continues constant and general, with more steadiness in values. Nothing that will pass for Brewing quality can be bought below $1 42½, while good runs up as high as $1 52½ $\pi$ ctl. Of strictly choice Brewing the market is bare.

OATS—1he market preserves a steady tone, though trade is not very extensive. Receipts have not been heavy this week, but there are ample stocks on hand, and no upward movement of consequence in values is expected in the immediate future. We quote: Surprise and milling, $1 40@1 45; No. 1, $1 25@1 27½; common grades, $1 17½@1 2 ½ T ctl.

VEGETABLES—There was no marked change in values to-day. Green Peas were a trifle firmer, although the receipts amounted to 748 sacks. Asparagus made the usual liberal exhibit, the arrivals footing up 530 boxes. Rhubarb was not far behind hand in representation, the various consignments looting up a total of 100 boxes. We quote as follows; Asparagus, $1@150 $\text{b}$ box: Green Peas, $1 25@1 50 $\text{c}$ sk: String Beans, $10@15c $\text{b}$; Egg Plant, $10@15c $\text{b}$; Cucumbers, $50c@$1 25 $\text{c}$ dozen; Los Angeles Green Peppers, $15@20c $\text{b}$; Egg Plant, $10@12c $\text{b}$; Tomatoes, $2 $\text{c}$ sack: Parsnips, $1 50 $\text{c}$ ctl: Califlower, $12 $\text{c}$ dozen; cabbage, $1 25@150 $\text{c}$ ctl: Garlic, $56@40c $\text{b}$; Celery, $50@60c $\text{d}$ dozen; chy Green; $10 $\text{d}$ to $\text{d}$ by the green; $10 $\text{d}$ ctl: $\text{G}$ ctl: $\text{G}$

FRUIT—No Cherries to-day. Eastern Apples in good order sell readily at full figures. Arrivals in poor condition are almost unsalable. Only eight chests of Strawberries arrived this morning, and fancy prices were paid for really choice stock. Raspberries continue to make a very light showing. Oranges of common variety are not in great demand. Choice Navels are scarce. We quote: Raspberries, $2@2 50 $ drawer; Strawberries, $15@25 $\pi$ chest; Oranges, California, $1 75@3 50 for ordinary stock, and $3@5 50 $\pi$ box for Navel; Apples. Lands in Calaveras County.

Lands in Calaveras County.

Upon offering lands in this county for sale the attention of the reader is called to the following article: "Good for Calaveras—She presents the finest Cluster of Oranges in the Fair.—It seems to be generally conceded that the finest cluster of oranges in the Fair is the one shown by J. P. Suessdorf, of Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras county. The name of the variety is not given. The oranges are large, highly-colored and absolutely clean. It is evident that they are in their natural condition, just as taken from the tree. The rind has a velvely texture, and is smooth without being polished. There are seventeen oranges in the cluster, whose entire length does not exceed lifteen inches. The golden fruit hangs together as closely as grapes in a bunch. The largest orange measures thirteen inches and the smallest ten and three-fourths in circumference. There are numerous other fine clusters in the display, and many branches are shown which bear a much larger number of oranges, but as a compact cluster of large fruit this can scarcely find a rival in the Fair. It is a singular thing that Calaveras county, hitherto almost unheard of in the production of fruit, should suddenly come to the front with what is probably the finest cluster of oranges ever shown in the State, and promises in the future to become renowned for her orange groves. Her astonishing exhibit is a remarkable i lustration of the indifference to splendid horticultural advantages that has so long prevailed in most of our Central counties. Any Southern California county capable of producing such a bunch of fruit as this from Mokelumne Hill would be overrun with real estate speculators and colonies would be sprinkled all over it. Land and water are very cheap in Calaveras, and yet it is safe to say that the county can far surpass Los Angeles in orange-growing.
